Ice is out just in time for fishing opener

by Darren Diekmann

news@thenewsleaders.com

Opening fishing for walleye, northern, bass and others opens Saturday, May 12, with anglers making plans to fish locally or go north to favorite destinations, while others will stay home because of obligations or to avoid the crowds altogether.

One of the latest ice-out dates predicted for a number of Minnesota lakes this year had many wondering if there would be an opener until a recent stretch of warm weather freed local lakes of ice last week and left resort owners up in the far north to believe lakes will be clear at least a few days before opening.

Ice went out on Lake Minnetonka on May 5 to tie the record in 1857 for the latest ice-out date.

Ice went out on Watab Lake, just north of St. Joseph, at 1 p.m. May 1, according to Al Dahlgren, who lives on the lake and keeps a yearly record of the date to report to the DNR. It is the second latest ice-out date that has been recorded on the

Not an avid fisherman himself, Dahlgren said he might do some fishing with friends this weekend.

Cabot Headland, who also lives on Watab, and has for more than 40 years, said he is going to stick around and try his luck on his home lake this weekend. He hopes it is a good year for walleye and believes it is going to be good for sunfish, he said. He likes the lake. "It's small enough that everyone is comfortable. It's not too windy and you're close enough to shore" (in case of a minor emergency). He said he expects to see a large group of locals to be out on Watab for the opener.

Kennedy students share activities with Woodcrest tenants

by Cori Hilsgen

news@thenewsleaders.com

If you think you might be in the wrong location seeing seniors participating in activities at Kennedy Community School and students participating in activities at Woodcrest of Country Manor in St. Joseph, you aren't.

Students at Kennedy and Woodcrest are implementing a new intergenerational partnership.

Laura Freese, Kennedy Community School's academic coach, said the partnership is very new.

She said she, Kennedy principal Laurie Putnam and Wood-crest directors met and brainstormed some possible activities students could do at both Kennedy and Woodcrest.

Transportation is somewhat tricky because only some of the tenants at Woodcrest drive and they have to rely on the shuttle service to travel.

"Our planning has to revolve around when the shuttle can transport," Freese said.

Because the partnership is very new, Freese said, they are moving a little slower trying to figure out how it will work best.

The first activity they scheduled was bingo in March with some fifth-grade students. On the afternoon of bingo, there was also a choir concert at Kennedy, so a couple of the tenants decided to watch and listen to the choir concert, while the others played bingo.

Some students from Kennedy commented about their experi-

"I thought it was pretty fun," said fifth-grader Joseph Forbregd. "I liked playing bingo with a mix of people. I would like to have played with more of the senior residents."

"I thought it was fun because you got to meet new people," said fifth-grader Kaela Jenderseck. "It was nice to play with some of the seniors from Woodcrest. I would like to do it again."

Woodcrest tenant LouAnn Huss participated in the bingo event.

"It was real(ly) enjoyable to play bingo with the fifth-graders," Huss said. "They were a very nice group of kids. I look forward to our next visit."

With warmer weather, seventh-grade students, walked to Woodcrest on May 1 to deliver some surprise May Day baskets containing candy to tenants. The students also shared punch and cookies with some of the tenants.

Even though it's long been her driving passion, Joyce Sauer never set out to become a trucker.

But while growing up on a farm in Collegeville, she became adept at driving all kinds of heavy farm equipment. During a recessionary period circa 1980, jobs were hard to come by, and Sauer decided to work as an over-the-road trucker for an area company. Her first job involved hauling railroad ties to the Duluth area.

Years later, in 1996, she and her husband, Todd Brenny, also a trucker, started their own com-

Brenny Transportation is lauded widely for its expert truckers, for its meticulous attention to customers' needs, for its unwavering support for employees and for its extraordinary safety records.

Council earns a clean bill of financial health

news@thenewsleaders.com

The St. Joseph City Council learned they have been doing a pretty good job of keeping revenues and expenses in check at their regular May 5 meeting. With one chair on the dais sitting empty because of the recent resignation of Matt Killam, the council heard Janel Bitzan of BerganKDV auditing firm.

Bitzan summarized the 134-page audit in a 15-minute presentation giving the council the highlights which included a surplus balance of unrestricted net position amounting to $2,967,863. After deducting for the governmental enterprise indebtedness, the balance still showed a positive balance of $1,150,122.

The complete audit can be found at the following cityofstjoseph.com:8080/ weblink/0/doc/615995/ Page1.aspx

The city uses a segregated fund system for financial management. In addition to the general account which is used for many day-to-day activities, the city has many proprietary accounts for things such as water, sanitary sewer, refuse, storm-water sewer and street-light utilities.

The report showed the proprietary accounts were well managed and they showed a combined balance increase of $755,514.

The city tries to maintain a four- to six-month working capital cushion in its general account to help in smoothing out liabilities incurred during various projects that are undertaken. Because of higher-than-ex-

A motion to accept the audit was approved unanimously.

Stearn County Engineer Jodi Teich appeared before the council to request approval and allowance for resurfacing work of CR 75. The project is scheduled to start in midsummer.

"This is a formality," Teich said. "I am asking for municipal approval of the project because a portion of the project will go right through the city."

The project will last mer and into the fall and will stretch from Interstate Hwy. 94 through St. Joseph and into Waite Park ending around 15th Avenue in Waite Park. As the highway passes through the city, the county is required to seek a permit to perform the work which the council approved.

City Engineer Randy Sabart requested the council approve a request to the Minnesota Department of Transportation for a limited-use permit in order to facilitate the construction of the proposed pedestrian trail along CR 2 which is within the MNDOT right-of-way as it passes under the I-94 interchange bridge. Council approved the request.

The council also approved purchase of playground equipment at Millstream Park in the amount of $31,000. Council had previously made a provision for the purchase of equipment up to $40,000 as part of the Millstream renovation plan. This purchase was a significant cost savings and was approved by the council.

City Administrator Judy Weyrens requested the council approve a refunding resolution in the amount of $1.1 million in order to qualify for a Business Development Public Infrastructure matching grant under the auspices of the Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development. The city is required to illustrate it has the available money to match the BDPI grant. Once the BDPI grant is awarded, the city will recoup its outlay through bond proceeds. Council approved the refunding.

speaker May 3 for the weekly Coffee and Conversation get-together at the Sartell Senior Connection. She shared anecdotes and insights about her years in the trucking industry and gave many safety tips for drivers on how to avoid accidents with Joining her in the presentation was Sarah Wishnefski, public-relations director for Brenny Transportation.

Mission

One day in the mid-1990s, Joyce told her husband she was ready to quit the trucking business. She had become fed up with the disrespectful ways truckers were treated by so many people, including at times by some trucking firms.

She and her husband agreed if they continued in the trucking business and started their own firm, they would work very hard to see truckers are treated with the utmost respect and doing outreach educational efforts to inform the public how truckers and the work they do is often completely ignored or dismissed with the worst forms of negative

Their work paid off, and Brenny Transportation is now recognized far and wide as a model business for its professionalism, safety, employee satisfaction, local charitable fundraising work and community connectiveness. It has been honored with a slew of awards. They include being named one of the Top 100 Employers in Minnesota six times, the Good Samaritan Award, Champion of Business by the St. Cloud Area Chamber of Commerce, two Drivers of the Year awards, first-place Minnesota Business Ethics Award and countless safety awards for the business and its truckers.

Customers

One of Brenny's biggest customers is the Sartell-based Dezurik Inc., a maker of giant valves. Brenny has had a contract for all of its 22 years to haul valves all over the world for Dezurik.

Brenny had a very important long-term contract with Verso paper mill in Sartell until an explosion there forced the closing of that company. The explosion, which killed a Verso worker, was a terrible shock to the staff and crew at Brenny, said Joyce Sauer-Brenny.

Brenny truckers also haul items for - to name a few -Ron's Cabinets, Park Industries, Cold Spring Granite. The truckers hauled hundreds of loads of granite to New York City for use in building the new World Trade Locally, Brenny drivers are constantly busy - everything from hauling bridge beams for the new Sauk Rapids bridge to hauling dairy cases for Coborn's grocery stores.

Truckers and the work they do, said Sauer-Brenny, are practically invisible to the public – out of sight, out of mind. People, she added, would be stunned if they fully understood how lives are touched by truckers. Without trucking, many of life's functions would cease, some of them within a day or two - hospital services, fuel-pump gas, food and drugs, virtually all the give-andtake of commerce.

Growing

There are more trucks on the nation's roads than ever, Sauer-Brenny said, adding more people means more trucks.

In the United States, there are currently 3.5-million trucks who drive, collectively, 279 billion miles a year. The safety records for that many truckers, that many miles, is astonishing, she said.

Truckers generally make between $70,000 and $80,000 per year, but it can be a tough life, with truckers often away from their families on those long miles. And that is one reason why there is now a shortage of

Sauer-Brenny and others are meeting with legislators, school officials and other officials to help kick-start an interest in the profession. Another ongoing problem is a shortage of overnight parking spaces for truckers to rest. Truckers have electronic-recording logs that keep track of the time each day they drive. After 10 hours of driving, a trucker must cease driving and get sleep. Some truckers have no choice but to break the law when they cannot find a place to park their truck and get the required

Another more recent challenge is roundabouts. It is very difficult for some trucks to maneuver around them without taking up both lanes. Sauer-Brenny urges people to be courteous and to hold back, giving the truck extra space when they see a truck at a roundabout.

Drug testing is also required for all truckers. Sauer-Brenny said in the 22 years of Brenny Transportation, there has never been a trucker who failed a drug test. She also said she thinks all professionals should be drug-tested as long as truckers are singled out for testing.

Some trucking companies have a 100-percent turnover rate in truckers every year. Brenny has been fortunate, with its 80-percent retention rate, Sauer-Brenny noted.

Driverless trucks, so-called, will not be seen on roads for at least 10 to 15 years, she said. Electrically-powered trucks are already being used in some com-

Road safety

Wishnefski played for the audience a video tape of a Lakeville trucker who addressed safety

He said in his 29 years of trucking, he has witnessed from the cab of his truck an increase in unsafe-driving practices: car drivers using cell phones, texting, eating while driving, weaving rapidly lane to lane and speeding.

The trucker shared safety tips: Do not tailgate a truck. It takes a truck almost 200 feet to come to a stop, twice as far as the stopping distance of a car.

Never attempt a "squeeze play." That means trying to "squeeze" past a truck when it is making a turn.

Do not drive for any length of time at the side of a truck. If you want to pass a truck, do it as quickly as is safely possible. When pulling into the lane in front of the traveling truck, make sure the front of the truck is visible in your rear-view mirror. That is because there are four "blind spots" a trucker cannot see while driving: up to 20 feet in front of the trucker's cab, on either side of the truck trailer and up to 200 feet in the rear.

Freese said she thinks the partnership is a great way to build multigenerational connections.

"It provides another opportunity for building compassion and kindness in our students," she said.

Emily Frericks, marketing director of Country Manor Campus/Woodcrest of Country Manor, said Woodcrest staff thought of the idea while planning activities to add to the tenants' social calendar.

Woodcrest staff has expressed excitement about being so close to Kennedy and the many possibilities for intergenerational programming.

She said the programming offers unique therapeutic benefits for both seniors and students. Woodcrest coordinator Jason Jones remembered the excitement he felt as a child surprising unsuspecting friends and neighbors with May Day baskets and thought it would be a chance for students to explore their creativity while helping brighten the day for Woodcrest tenants.

Frericks said the students' eagerness upon arrival was obvious and they couldn't wait to present their gifts to the "grandmas and grandpas."

Students first stopped at the Woodcrest Memory Suites where tenants engage in daily life-enriching programming. During regularly scheduled activities on May 1, tenants were surprised when the students came in with the baskets. People applauded and thanked the students for the baskets.

Staff at the memory suites said the students' acts of kindness brought many smiles and joy to the tenants.

Students next stopped to visit the tenants in the apartments.

"There was a knock on my door, but by the time I got to the door they were gone," said Woodcrest tenant Al Pflipsen, who was not expecting a May Day surprise. "My neighbor was looking out her room and said I just saw them go that way."

The apartment tenants enjoyed both the baskets and

"This was the best knock on the door I've ever had," said tenant LaVern Hruska.

"It was such a nice surprise to meet some of the Kennedy students," said tenant Therese Wiener. "It made my day."

Frericks said tenants are still discussing the May Day surprise.

"It truly is the simplest acts of kindness that often mean the most," she said.

Frericks said staff at Woodcrest are looking forward to many more events with Kennedy students, which they are sure will be just as impactful as May Day 2018.

Woodcrest of Country Manor, which opened in November 2017, includes patio homes, senior apartments and suites. Tenants can choose from a variety of lifestyle options ranging from independent living to 24-hour licensed memory care.

Tenants have access to a nondenominational chapel, fitness classes, salon and spa, store, coffee shop and exclusive hobby rooms such as the "Man Cave." The campus is on 137 acres and walking trails are underway.

NEVER

"We have Memorial Day coming up at the end of this month on which we celebrate the memory of those brave soldiers who were struck down on the field of battle in their prime. Whether it was on foreign shores or in our own land, these deaths are to be viewed as heroic and a mark of valor and bravery.

However, we have another group of men and women who have made no less of a sacrifice for our country: the police officers who have fallen in the line of duty. These are the men and women who defend us daily on our streets and towns. They stand up for the law, that system of the Social Contract that makes ours a civil society.

On this day, May 15, we set aside to honor those officers who so bravely and skillfully served their cities and friends and family. They have made the ultimate sacrifice in their line of duty. They have exhibited the valor that is so valued to a democratic society.'

Last chance to speak as legislators race to session deadline

Now it's time to get serious.

The Legislature has been in session since Feb. 20. But there are only 10 days left before the session deadline and the Legislature must act on two huge measures affecting every Minnesotan.

Now is the last chance for Minnesotans to speak up as the legislators race to the deadline.

The state needs to align the Minnesota tax code to accommodate changes made in federal tax laws. Otherwise, Minnesotans may end up with some surprises when filing their 2018 taxes.

The House and Senate have different plans but both Republican-controlled bodies claim their measures will reduce taxes.

The Senate plan keeps some deductions the federal plan eliminated and also lowers the bottom tax rate. House members want to eliminate some deductions and lower the tax rate for about 2 million Minnesotans.

Gov. Mark Dayton, a Democrat, doesn't like either plan. He'd like to raise business taxes and cut taxes for individuals.

Bonding bills typically dominate the second year of a legislative session and this year is no different. Four months ago, Dayton proposed bonding for $1.5 million to fund roads, water projects and fix state buildings. The Senate has yet to unveil its bonding plan.

The current House plan includes $2.7 million for a new fence at the St. Cloud prison, $5 million for Waite Park's quarry redevelopment and $4.45 million for St. Cloud armory repairs. Bonding for St. Joseph's pedestrian underpass and community center, called for by bills introduced by Rep. Jeff Howe, are not in the House bonding bill.

School-safety funding has already been included in bills passed by both chambers. But there's no agreement between Republicans and Democrats on whether gun-safety legislation should be part of school safety. Those measures include expanding background checks and keeping guns away from people believed to be a risk.

This is an election year, but Dayton isn't running for re-election and Senators aren't on the ballot until 2020. But House Republicans have criticized Dayton's tax plan as an increase. When they start campaigning full time after the session ends, Republicans will want to argue they are tax cutters.

This is the week to let your legislators know your opinion

Look past shenanigans for enduring Washington inspiration

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Watching from Area Code 320, the nation's capital appears to be the land of shenanigans and ridiculousness.

Consider these recent events:

• For the first time, a House of Representatives chaplain was fired, apparently because he offered a prayer that was not sufficiently supportive of the Republicans' tax plan. The chaplain is a Jesuit, a religious order known for its intellectual rigor and social-justice stands. He was unfired a few weeks later.

• Emmanuel Macron and Donald Trump planted a tree on the White House grounds meant to symbolize the deep ties between France and the United States. The act exposed the obvious – Trump and Macron have never used actual shovels to do actual work. Then in a few days, the tree disappeared. It was unplanted until the tree could pass quarantine as a foreign plant.

• The director of the Environmental Protection Agency, whose job it is make sure we have clean air and water, ordered up a bullet-proof Chevy Suburban, complete with lights and siren so he could get to dinner on time and respond to environmental emergencies without delay.

• The director also rented a Capitol Hill condo for $50 a night. He unrented it on nights he wasn't in town. I was not able to find a similar deal on Airbnb or anywhere else in the shared economy during my trip to Washington last week.

I was in Washington to see my younger daughter, who works in the District. Over the last 40 years, Mike Knaak

I've visited the city perhaps two dozen times, including living there for a few months in the 1980s. Early May is a good time to visit. The hordes of high-school students on spring break trips are long gone and the cherry blossoms have fallen. Families pushing strollers and buying trite souvenirs from street-side vendors are yet to arrive. Plus, May weather is usually breezy and pleasant before the summer heat and swamp-like humidity sets in.

I've done the standard tourist activities long ago and as much as I'd like to check out the phantom White House tree and Scott Pruitt's armored SUV, I chose a few activities that are more enduring.

There are three photo exhibits on display at the Newseum. On the 50th anniversary of the Tet Offensive, The Marines and Tet: The Battle That Changed the Vietnam War showcases the work of Stars-and-Stripes photographer John Olson.

Another gallery features the most comprehensive collection of Pulitzer Prize-winning photographs ever assembled, including photographs from every Pulitzer Prize-winning entry since 1942, when the award was first presented.

The third exhibit I wanted to see was Pictures of the Year: 75 Years of the World's Best Photography featuring seven decades of award-winning images from the archives of Pictures of the Year International, one of the world's oldest and most prestigious photojournalism competitions. The pictures were selected from POYI's archive of more than 40,000 photos, tracing the evolution of photojournalism from World War II to today.

Any visit to Washington should include a short walk to visit Lincoln, MLK, FDR and Jefferson. Starting with the Lincoln Memorial at the west end of the Mall and then heading south around the Tidal Basin, a visitor will find inspiring words.

On the north wall of the MLK memorial, a visitor can read: "The ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of convenience and comfort, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy."

Walk another 500 yards to the south and FDR reminds us: "We must scrupulously guard the civil rights and civil liberties of all our citizens, whatever their background. We must remember that any oppression, any injustice, any hatred, is a wedge designed to attack our civilization."

The shared human moments captured by the award-winning news photos and the timeless quotations will endure, while the shenanigans and ridiculousness of the current administration will be swept away as soon as the next election or perhaps with a string of federal indictments.

Bell's ferocious love of life wins

Bob Bell, unable to move, was on his back helpless in the hospital. Dreading the neurosurgeon's dire verdict, he finally found the courage to ask, "Will I ever walk again?"

"Son, you're a quadriplegic," said the neurosurgeon.

And Bell thought to himself, "I'd asked him if he knew whether I'd walk again. I had no idea if quadriplegics walked. Actually, let's forget this walking crap. I wanted to know if I'd have sex again."

Bell is the author of a true-life book with an odd title (Un Moving Four Ward: Tales and Tips for Keeping Perspective Despite Life's Challenges). Bell is a survivor, and his book is brimming with a deadpan sense of humor that comes from facing impossible odds – and winning. Comedian Carol Burnett once said humor is tragedy, plus time. That well describes Bell's book.

Published in 2014, Un Moving Four Ward (a double-meaning pun) is an inspirational book with a kick. Unlike so many advice books that wallow in goo-goo pablum, this one packs a real punch, alternating between trauma and hilarity, from no-nonsense survival tips to good insights into the art of living.

Bell is an associate professor of accounting and finance at the College of St. Benedict/St. John's University.

Raised in Pensacola, Fla., he decided to study at SJU. He was on campus only a few months before the life-changing moment happened at 6:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 21, 1989, in a dorm hallway. A fellow Johnnie, in a fit of horseplay, put a full-nelson headlock on Bell. In the process, he broke Bell's neck. At the hospital, the Johnnie visited Bell and, crying inconsolably, told Bell how sorry he was, that he never meant to cause such suffering. Bell decided then and there to forgive him, an important start of his healing process.

Bell's book recounts the agonizing struggle to adjust to life as a quadriplegic. It's a rough-and-tumble journey, but along the way there are plenty of triumphs. Readers learn quickly that "quitting" is not part of Bell's vocabulary.

How can a book so filled with pain and suffering be called "enjoyable?" Well, it is just that – enjoyable, mainly because of Bell's ferocious love of life and his comical remarks and observations. As a youth, Bell was a bit of a goof-off hooligan, a smart-aleck, a wisecracker, but an amusing one with lots of friends. That kind of off-the-wall, irreverent humor pervades his book.

vades his book. Un Moving Four Ward is also a pleasure to read because of Bell's vivid descriptions of the campuses of SJU/CSB and student life in Collegeville, St. Joseph, St. Cloud and Bell's journeys throughout the world. He has visited more than 50

He alternates his life story with short chapters of his hard-won wisdoms and tips for readers.

Two examples:

From Life is Short – Make the Most of It: "Bizarre as it may sound, I believe my ability to handle my injury – both in the early days and today – has been helped by knowing so many people who died much too young."

From Hospital Tips: "Ask questions of nurses. Nurses often know much more than the doctors. Avoid any doctor who disregards the opinion of a nurse or disrespects a nurse."

And here's an example of Bell's deadpan humor:

"It's certainly not that I was the worst kid in the world, it's just that I wasn't always the best kid either: held back by the Juder (his mother's nickname) in second grade, a regular cigarette smoker by third grade, arrested in front of my class for burglary and vandalism in fourth grade and started drinking alcohol by eighth grade . . . As my sweet, skinny, church-going granny used to say, 'We pray for C's for Bob.'"

I bought Bell's book via amazon. com, but it is also available at local libraries. It was recommended to me many times. I finally read it. Glad I did. Now it's happily my turn to recommend Un Moving Four Ward.

Is it just me, or is it getting crowded in here?

A decade ago, as I was needs (or more!), no one is running a small preorder for my latest book on my website, a friend emailed asking me if I had heard about this Kickstarter thing and if that would work for preorders. It was in beta and looking for people to use it. A year later, Kickstarter was out of beta and the word was starting to spread.

Kickstarter was the first of a slew of crowdfunding sites. For those not in the know, crowdfunding relies on a small crowd of people each pledging to pay for a project before the project is completed and get various rewards for their support when the project is completed.

Kickstarter is cool because unless a project raises all the money it says it charged. (Other sites such as Indiegogo have no such rules.) Once that threshold of pledges is reached, it's game on! For instance, a cartoonist may want to print their latest book, the cartoonist says they need $1,000 to print the books. Visitors to the site can pledge to support the project to help raise that $1,000. In return, there are rewards at different levels of pledges. There are usually a lot of different levels of pledges and the more a person pledges the more they get. Someone may just want the finished book and pledge $15 to get that, but a superfan may want the book, a signed print, a personalized drawing or other cool things and will pledge more to get that reward.

It didn't take long for crowdfunding to become a massive game changer. My friend Spike ran a Kickstarter to pay for the production of a comic called "Poorcraft" with a goal of $6,000 and raised over $13,000, which helped launch her company. Today, Iron Circus Comics is a massive comic book publisher and uses Kickstarter to fund the creation of all its books. The coolest part of that $13,000 was it was raised by only 703 backers.

It's not just unknowns either. Amanda Palmer, former lead singer of the Dresden Dolls, left her label when they felt 25,000 sales in the first week wasn't enough. With Kickstarter, Palmer raised the most for an independent musician ever for her new album: over $1 million with about 25,000 backers. Her album hit the Billboard Top 10.

Artists have embraced crowdfunding and entire companies are being built by crowds. Sadly, there are other uses. Another site called GoFundMe is used by people who are having financial problems to gather donations. A lot of people use GoFundMe to pay medical bills and even funeral

It just takes a small crowd to be successful. While most projects will offer amazing rewards for high-dollar pledges, the truth is most projects are funded by small pledges. A lot of times, people will pledge and select "no reward," just wanting to help artists create their art. Of course, a big part of it is also being part of the community that comes with that crowd. The direct communication between the artist (or inventor) and the audience has become a key component. People like to help their friends, and that's what crowdfunding feels like – helping your friends.

As for me, on May 14, my latest Kickstarter launches to fund the creation of my first graphic novel. I can't wait to see how the crowd likes Anna Chronism.
